

Giovanni De Siervo

Expert on humanitarian aid and disaster risk management. He is currently Head of European and International Relations Unit at the Civil Protection Department of the Italian Government. He previously worked for NGOs, academic institutions and International Organizations (European Commission, United Nations). He was involved in international relief and humanitarian operations in the Balkans, Africa, Asia and South America.